Mass Communication Reunion Conference

March 19 - 20, 2009

---

College of Professional Studies
Grambling State University

Washington-Johnson Complex Room 100

From the Department Head

The Department of Mass Communication has begun a new era of instructional innovation and media technology. The department recently acquired 24 state-of-the-art Macintosh computers and developed a convergence laboratory that will enable students to gain competitive skills that are in high demand in the industry.

The overriding reasons for the reunion are to showcase our graduates and to express our appreciation for their willingness to return to the campus to share their professional knowledge and expertise with current students. We believe that their interaction will help tremendously to motivate students toward academic excellence.

The department decided to implement the innovative idea of a reunion in order to take full advantage of the assistance that the graduates, using their professional connections, can provide students. We encourage graduates to consider adopting students and work with them toward obtaining internships or jobs.

We count on the graduates to reinforce the department's ability to develop a scholarship program through their continuing support and generous contributions.

Dr. Martin O. Edu
Acting Head
